"GLIFWC's Chippewa Ceded Territory Traditional Food Regulatory System Project" (a.k.a GLIFWC's Model Food Code Project) has now made available topic based community interest webinars co-hosted with community partners.

Each recording focuses on a traditional food chosen by the community in 2019. Each 1 hour webinar provides information about harvest regulations, contaminants, food safety, and the relevant model food code chapter.

The information is specific to GLIFWC member tribes and is current to June 1st, 2020.

To register for access, click the image of the webinar you would like to view. Also available at GLIFWC.org.

Note:
Some communities chose the same traditional food topic. In those instances, the best webinar has been selected for viewing as the information presented did not change.
